

FLICKERING CANDLE

The flickering candle and her strange perfume bewitched his senses when he came into the room. With a twinkle in her eyes she drew the cards for him and looked at them with the joy of a child. With a satanic grin, she gave him hints concerning his life, since she knew everything about him now. He listened closely and was captivated by her voice. Actually he wanted to go, but she rearranged his cards while the wolves were howling at the moon. Whatever she had seen – by having his fortune told, he made his choice to stay forever with her.
